W. W. Child, who died in Edgerton last night, was one of the heaviest tobacco dealers in the state. For nearly fifty years Mr. Child had been a resident of Wisconsin. He became interested in the tobacco trade in 1869 when he built a warehouse and commenced dealing both in tobacco and wool. A few years later he associated himself with the firm of C. H. Spitzner & Co., one of the oldest leaf houses in New York and has since been in joint account with that house in most of his extensive tobacco trades. In 1884 he erected the largest warehouse then in the state and has been the largest dealer of Wisconsin tobacco in the west. The year ending January 1 last he handled over $200,000 worth of Wisconsin leaf.

CHEAPER BUILDING IS NOW PROMISED

CHANGES MADE IN HIGH SCHOOL SPECIFICATIONS

Superintendent Mayne Says that With Less Expensive Woodwork there Will Be No Question About Bringing the Cost Within the Amount Of the Appropriation.

Superintendent Mayne was smiling this morning, and expressed himself as very confident that the bids received next Monday by the school board would come within the appropriation for the new high school building.

"I can't see how the bidders figure the work to get it so high," said he. "There are only eighteen hundred dollars worth of brick in the building, figuring the brick at $17 a thousand. Now, we will make some changes in the style of stone to be used, and remove some of the terra cotta, putting in galvanized iron. Then the plaus call for the very best inside finish, especially the wood work, which is first class, costing much more than is really necessary. This will be changed for less expensive work, and I believe with these changes in the material we can get bids down to meet the appropriation, and have just as good a building."

Some of the commissioners are of the same opinion as the superintendent of schools. All, however, have given up the idea of completing the building before next season, and with the progress so far made, it is not likely the building will be ready for high school pupils before the opening of the fall term in 1895.

FETHERS HIGH IN PYTHIAN RANKS.

Janesville Man Mentioned by the Washington Post in a Complimentary Fashion.

A Janesville Pythian is thus mentioned by the Washington Post in reviewing the conclave:

"While Supreme Representative Ogden H. Fethers, of Wisconsin, is so well known in his jurisdiction as to require no introduction to Badger Pythians, some of the details of his life may be interesting to the Knights from other states. He graduated from Fort Edward college, New York, in 1863, at the age of eighteen years, having laid a splendid foundation in the learning of the exact sciences and in literature.

"In 1877 the inducements of the west were too strong to be resisted, and he removed to Janesville, Wis., where he has since resided. Mr. Fethers at once took a prominent place at the Janesville bar. The title of his present firm is Fethers, Jeffris, Fifeild & Matheson. Mr. Fethers is known throughout the state as one of the most eloquent and forcible advocates and platform speakers. His professional duties call him to all parts of the state, and no trial in which he participates can be called dull. In politics he is a republican, and his party during every campaign gladly avails itself of his services as a speaker.

"Mr. Fethers has never sought, and, in fact, has always declined, political office, but his party has twice conferred upon him the honor of making him chairman of its state convention. He has a wonderful command of language and a polished diction, together with a marked presence which would command attention in any body of men. Many people suppose him to be a man whose real acquaintance it is difficult to cultivate. To some extent this is true. He does not speak unless he has something to say. The fault—if it be a fault—is one of manner and not of heart, as all will admit when once his acquaintance is formed. He has many warm friends, and when once his friendship is gained it sticks closer than a brother, and can be relied upon at all times and upon all occasions."

MAXWELL PRETTY IN WHITE DUCK

The Well Known Salesman Cuts a Wide Swath at a Monroe Dance.

B. H. Maxwell, the well known coffin salesman who visits Janesville every month or so, went to a Monroe dance Wednesday night, in a pair of white duck pants loaned to him for the occasion and bearing the imprint of the Mott Shirt Company, of Rockford on a conspicuous surface. The Monroe Times says: "The pants gave valuable assistance to the orchestra, and the presence was an unquestioned delight to brother salesmen who got onto their cut. There was even commotion among the birds in the air and many flew in and twitted at him from the ceiling of the hall. What caused the wearer the most distress was a cablegram he received immediately after reaching the hall, stating that it was raining in London."

TRIBUTE TO MRS. MARY L. STOUT

Rev. S. P. Wilder Writes of Her Many Good Qualities.

Concerning Mrs. Mary L. Stout, widow of the late Daniel Stout, who died at her home on North Jackson street Monday, Rev. S. P. Wilder writes the following:

"The news of Mrs. Stout's death came with a shock of surprise to many of her friends who had not heard of her brief but painful illness of only ten days. Mr. and Mrs. Stout came to Janesville in 1859 from Waterloo, New York, and soon after settled in the home on North Jackson street, which has been the family residence to the present time. Mr. Stout died in northern Wisconsin in 1887, since which time, his widow and only child, Miss Idella Stout, have lived together in the old homestead. Mrs. Stout united with the Congregational church during the pastorate of Rev. Mr. Sawin, and though feeble health often prevented her from taking an active part in the work of the church, she ever maintained a warm interest in its welfare, and sought to do for it through her daughter's work, and influence that which she was unable herself to do. The relation between mother and daughter has been one of singularly warm and affectionate companionship, and the many friends of Miss Idella will feel for her the deepest sympathy in her great loss and loneliness. Funeral services were conducted at the house on Wednesday afternoon by the pastor, Mr. Wilder, who dwelt on the place and power of the mother in the christian home, and the value of such homes to the larger life and welfare of the nation. The Congregational church choir were present at the house and by the grave, and voiced their sympathy in songs of christian faith and hope."

HORSE KILLED BY A GUY-WIRE.

Pearle Dean's Steed Electrocuted at Milwaukee and Academy Streets.

Pearl Dean, of Center, had a horse electrocuted at the corner of West Milwaukee and Academy streets last night. The trolley of the Main street car flew off just as Dean was driving by. It broke a guy wire and the wire dropped, catching the horse across the knees. Half a dozen fool-hardy people ran out and would have tempted death by grabbing the wire to pull it away, had not the street car men prevented. The horse was killed instantly and was carted away for burial.

BRIDGE IS NOT SAFE; THE PLANKS ROTTEN

MILWAUKEE STREET STRUCTURE LOOKS DANGEROUS.

Chief Acheson Drives His Cane Through the Roadway Between the Street Car Tracks—Commissioner Hanthorn Will Make An Investigation.

Milwaukee street bridge is in a very unsound condition. Chief Acheson was crossing the street when he discovered a hole in the centre of the railway track near the middle of the bridge. The hole was large enough to admit a horse's hoof. The officer dispatched a messenger for the street commissioner, and while waiting commenced picking at the hole with his cane. It was not hard picking either, for in a few moments nearly the entire width of the plank was removed. The plank was rotten clear through, possessing no strength whatever. The bridge has been in use many years, and the present floor has been in service about ten years. Some of the blocks, which were removed three years ago, were then worn down half their length. The timely discovery of the rotten plank yesterday afternoon ought to admonish the bridge committee to make a careful inspection of the whole bridge, and if the structure is unsound, it should be promptly condemned before the city is made a defendant in an expensive damage suit.

MARSHFIELD PEOPLE ALL HIS FIRM FRIENDS.

Not One of His Workmen Can Be Found to Say a Hard Word Against Him—He Is The Friend Of All Of Them and They Know It.

With each day Major Upham grows stronger. His majority is likely to establish a new record for Wisconsin republicans. Everybody has learned by this time of his political achievements, and a few words as to his personal life will be timely.

The republicans of Wisconsin have nominated as a candidate for governor Major William H. Upham. Their nominee is in the prime of life, having been born in 1841. At the beginning of the civil war he enlisted in the Union army and served with distinction, in one engagement being severely wounded and reported killed. He is one of the few men who, being yet alive, have had their funeral sermons preached. This was done in the town from which he enlisted, when the report of his death was received. On his release from Libby prison, whither he was taken when wounded, he was appointed as cadet by President Lincoln in recognition of valuable services in obtaining important information while a prisoner, and was graduated from West Point in 1866. Being appointed second lieutenant of the Fifth United States artillery, stationed at Fortress Monroe, he was guard officer over Jefferson Davis after his capture. After some years of service in the regular army he resigned and entered upon business pursuits in Wisconsin, turning his attention to the lumber industry. Locating in Marshfield in 1870, when the town was yet a wilderness, he built mills and established other important industries. In 1877 the place was swept by a devastating fire. Major Upham caused a flag to be raised over the burned site, and announced that he would rebuild on a much larger scale than before, and this he immediately did, prosecuting his enterprises with such indomitable energy that the town is now one of the important cities of Wisconsin. Major Upham is identified with financial and other institutions, and was for a time mayor of Marshfield. In 1891 he was state commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

NOVEL BASEBALL POINT.

During a recent game here at Hazleton, Pa., a very fine point in baseball legislation came up before Umpire Corcoran, for deciding which there has never been any fixed rule established. With a base runner on first bag, and a batsman in position, the pitcher receives a signal from the catcher indicating that the runner was napping. The pitcher in throwing the ball to first threw it over the baseman's head, striking the crowd outside the lines. It being a blocked ball the runner continued around the bases and was half-way between third and home when the ball reached the pitcher's hands. The latter standing on the rubber without pausing momentarily, as required by rule, or stopping off the rubber, threw the ball to the catcher, who caught the runner before he touched the plate. Umpire Corcoran not only allowed the runner to score, but also gave the man at bat his base. The umpire contended that the delivery of the ball was illegal, and, as there has been no rule fixed governing such a play, claims that he was justified in his action. The point, as made by Mr. Corcoran is rather delicate and it would seem is worthy of the attention of baseball legislators. Besides the feature demonstrated the play embraces points which are equally intricate. For instance, had the pitcher paused as per rule, would the batsman be justified in striking at the ball, or could the umpire call it a strike or a ball, if the delivery was within the necessary bounds? Mr. Corcoran in supporting the position he took cited other features which were no less important, and carried his point, despite the vigorous objection raised by the captain of the team affected.

HARD WORK AHEAD.

As congress now stands the democratic majority in the house is 91—counting the populists 102. This means that republicans have no light task when they try to reclaim both branches of the national legislature.

Less than this they will not be satisfied in doing however, for any democratic majority at all would enable that party to control the house, and would keep all branches of the government in democratic hands for two years more, or through Cleveland's term. Such an outcome even though the democratic margin over the republicans would be not much more than a third as broad as the present one, would be a serious disappointment to the republicans.

But republicans are confident that they will do more than merely cut down the democratic lead to a low figure. They have good reason to believe that they will gain control of the next house, although they are not predicting or expecting any such majority as the democrats have at present. In all congressional canvasses the democrats start out with the important advantage of being assured of a practically solid delegation for their side from the south. In the present house there are 121 democrats from the ex-slave states, and only six republicans. If the democrats can hold their present seats from the sixteen southern states they will need to secure only fifty-eight in the other twenty-eight states in order to retain control of the house. It is the republican belief that the democracy will lose several of those southern seats, and that it will moreover, fail to secure in the rest of the country the fifty-eight votes which, with these 121 would give it the victory; but it is well for the republicans to look at the situation squarely, and to learn at the outset that only by vigorous, intelligent and persistent work can they hope to achieve victory.

The south is recovering from the effects of the panic more rapidly than the north, and there is good reason to believe that such a period of prosperity is dawning for that section as it has not known since the war. Nobody would object to this if the prosperity were not almost wholly at the north's expense. The democratic congress did its work well.

The sugar trust comes high. It cost the business of the United States the profitable markets of Cuba and Porto Rico, lost through abrogation of reciprocity agreements; it will cost sugar consumers the two cents a pound more they will have to pay for sugar, and it is going to cost the democratic party the control of congress.

To those who believe in voting money out of their own pockets, we have nothing to say, but to those who wish to see the country return to an era of prosperity and good wages we beg to say that it can be accomplished in only one way—vote the republican party back into power.

Perhaps those Greek soldiers who destroyed the office of an Athens newspaper and the residence of an editor, merely wished to show their disbelief of the adage, "The pen is mightier than the sword." Every man of them deserves to have "coward" branded on his forehead.

If anybody expects Secretary Carlisle to make a tariff ruling that will enable foreign sugar refiners to cut into the profits of the sugar trust, they had better prepare to be disappointed.

The N. Y. Sun's welcome to the journalistic fraternity of Congressman Bryan was hot enough, but it cannot be considered cordial.

An astrologer explains it all. Grover Cleveland's "significator" is the moon. Some of his recent acts have been quite moony.

The average democrat is still in doubt whether to praise or run down the new tariff.

No man is fonder of fair play than an Englishman—when fair play assists his side.

Tea-Table Etiquette.
On pouring the wonderful Flower of Japan tea the hostess should never fill the cups of her guests over three-quarters full. It is very awkward for one to lift an overflowing cup to his lips, and moreover, the quality of his tea is so high and the flavor so delicious that one prefers to sip it leisurely.

APPLEBY AND NYE EASY WINNERS

BELOIT MEN COMBINE WITH THE TOWNS.

W. J. McIntyre Renominated By Acclamation—Proceedings of Rock County Republicans in Annual Convention—Young Men Are Numerous And Surprises Plentiful.

For Sheriff..... W. H. APPLEBY
For County Clerk..... W. J. MCINTYRE
For Treasurer..... C. N. NYE
For Register..... O. D. ROWE
For Clerk of Court..... T. W. GOLDIN
For District Attorney..... W. A. JACKSON

C. C. Keeler of Beloit, was made chairman of the county republican convention today as soon as W. T. Vankirk had called it to order. Having secured the chairman, Beloit went right out for everything in sight and Prof. Burr and E. F. Hansen, both of Beloit, had been named as secretaries before Line City modestly cropped out and Hansen withdrew in favor of C. H. Weirick of Shopiere. A. H. Sheldon, C. W. Stark and H. A. Egerton were named as a committee on credentials and began work at once, the convention adjourning meanwhile until 1:30.

Chairman Keeler's speech of acceptance on taking the chair was brief and to the point. He wanted the convention to do all in its power for the best interests of the best party ever organized and perpetuated.

There were plenty of efforts at trading during the noon hour, but none of them seemed to bear fruit. It was more and more manifest as the day went by that "trading stock" was scarce. Heretofore candidates have come in with a personal following that could be swung from side to side as occasion demanded. This year the delegates have been pinned down and pledged on every office from sheriff to coroner and could not be switched. That made it seem likely that most of the contests would be simply a question of staying power, to be determined by the gradual dropping away of one man at a time. The delegates got together at 1:30, therefore, ready for a long struggle.

Speeches Couldn't Be Barred.

As soon as Chairman Keeler had called the convention to order, A. H. Sheldon, of the credential committee, made his report. The report appears elsewhere. O. F. Nowlan, A. S. Flagg and H. A. Egerton were named as tellers.

F. W. Coon, of Edgerton, offered a communication from R. J. Maltress, offering to duplicate the present tramp contract. The communication was laid on the table, pursuant to C. W. Stark's motion. Cham Ingersoll's motion was adopted, instead, providing that the nominee for sheriff be pledged to accept the contract now in force.

An effort was made to shut off nomination speeches, but the motion was lost by a vote of 75 to 17. E. F. Hansen nominated W. H. Appleby for sheriff and Cham Ingersoll seconded the nomination. W. S. Heddles nominated R. J. Maltress, of Edgerton, claiming that his city could be made solidly republican if the precedent of thirty-seven years was overthrown, and an Edgerton man given a place on the county ticket. Henry Brace, of Fulton, seconded Maltress' nomination. John Cunningham spoke for Chief Acheson; Caleb E. Lee, for Charles Brink of Edgerton; Charles W. Stark, for J. E. Gleason, of La Prairie; David Conger, for L. M. Nelson and W. Brown for W. B. Andrew.

What the Balloting Showed.

An informal ballot for sheriff was reached at 2:30. It gave T. L. Acheson, of Janesville, 41; W. H. Appleby, of Beloit 31; R. J. Maltress, of Edgerton, 13; J. E. Gleason of La Prairie, 5; L. M. Nelson of Janesville, 12; C. E. Brink, of Evansville, 10; W. B. Andrew, of Magnolia, 4; James Teeter of Clinton, 3; J. S. Lynch of Avon, 1; C. B. Downing of Janesville, 1.

The third formal ballot gave W. H. Appleby the sixty-one ballots necessary for a choice. Acheson held his original strength but the field combined against him. The ballots stood:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
Acheson.....	45	41	42
Appleby.....	49	56	61
Maltress.....	11	11	7
Brink.....	10	10	9
Gleason.....	3	1	0
Andrew.....	1	0	0
Nelson.....	1	1	0
Lynch.....	1	1	1

After the third formal ballot, on motion of T. W. Coon, Appleby's nomination was made unanimous. Mr. Appleby was introduced, and thanked the convention for the honor. He said:

"If elected, and I shall be elected, I promise you that I will faithfully perform the duties of my office."

The Rest of the Ticket.

Simon Smith, of Beloit, moved that W. J. McIntyre be nominated for county clerk by acclamation. The motion was adopted, and Mr. McIntyre was declared renominated.

Simon Smith nominated C. N. Nye of Beloit town for county treasurer. Dr. Merriam of Beloit, nominated C. H. Sharpe of Beloit city. C. E. Lee nominated A. E. Thorpe of Evansville. The ballots for treasurer stood:

	1st.	2nd.	3rd.
C. N. Nye.....	49	56	61
C. H. Sharpe.....	22	22	42
A. E. Thorpe.....	32	19	0
A. O. Gifford.....	1	11	0

Charles N. Nye of Beloit town, was declared the nominee.

Byron Snyder of Clinton, nominated F. A. Ames, of Wallin, for register of deeds; J. F. Wallin was nominated by H. A. Egerton; James

Shearer nominated O. D. Rowe. The ballots resulted:

The first ballot for clerk of the court gave T. W. Goldin, 56; C. B. Conrad, 49; E. C. Burdick, 15; E. D. McGowan 1.

The second ballot resulted in a nomination, Goldin getting 68 votes, Conrad 48 and Burdick 5.

First ballot district attorney Jackson 91; Sloan 31.

Nobody Had Votes To Trade.

"I never saw a convention in Rock county before where candidates had as little trading stock as this year," said one delegate. "The Janesville candidates for sheriff and clerk were in especially poor shape. All their delegates were pledged to various other Janesville candidates further down on the ticket as well, and nobody could offer delegations with any hope of delivering the goods."

That Friday, September 7, 1894, will go down in history as one of the liveliest republican days in the city there is no question. Last evening delegates commenced to congregate in the city and during the forenoon the hotels were filled with delegates and canvassers and candidates. Later large numbers congregated on Main and Milwaukee streets and the campaign was carried on in earnest. The delegates from Edgerton and those favoring the nomination of R. J. Maltress for sheriff, wore large white badges pinned to the lapel of their coats, the badges bearing candidate Maltress' name. This is the first time a delegation has worn badges into a Rock county convention, and it was an evidence that Mr. Maltress' friends are working in earnest for his success. The best of good feeling prevailed, all the candidates touching elbows for republican success as they joined.

FELL 25 FEET WITHOUT A BRUISE

Johnny Heller Dove Headlong Down a Hay Shute in Nelson's Barn.

Little Johnny Heller, the ten year old son of Elijah Heller, the Court street blacksmith, fell from the hay loft in Nelson Bros. barn last evening, a distance of twenty-five feet to the basement, and escaped without serious injury. Young Heller was up in the hay loft watching the unloading of hay with a power fork. When a fork of hay reached the loft he attempted to stand to one side and in doing this stepped into a hay shute, and down to the basement he fell. The men rushed to the basement expecting the boy had been seriously hurt or killed, and were surprised to find him up and hunting for a place to get out of the dark basement.

Barns and Tobacco Sheds Suffer Most Severely—Big Buildings Moved Off Their Foundations—Much Damage Is Reported From the Seth Fisher Neighborhood.

People in the town of Center were startled at 5 o'clock last evening by the sudden development of a cyclone in their midst. Tobacco sheds were torn from their foundations, out buildings were wrecked and windows broken in dwellings. Orchard trees were torn up by their roots, and forest trees and fences were wrecked. The cyclone developed at the time of the rain storm. A moment before, there was almost no wind.

The neighborhood near Seth Fisher's suffered the most. Will Crow's tobacco shed and outbuildings were destroyed. The tobacco shed was moved twenty feet from its foundation and was wrecked. Other farmers, in the line lost buildings and fences, besides having the windows in their houses broken. The rainfall was heavy.

STOOD AT HYMEN'S ALTAR.

Buchholz-Meyer.

St. John's church was crowded last evening by the friends who gathered to witness the wedding of Miss Emma Meyer to Otto Buchholz. The happy couple were attended by Miss Mary Bauman and Miss Meyer, the latter a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Fred Brogue and August Meyer, the latter a brother of the bride, as groomsmen. Rev. George Kaempfein tied the nuptial knot.

A reception was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Buchholz at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer on North River street. The lawn was bright with numerous Chinese lanterns and inside Tuckwood's orchestra discoursed charming music for dancing. An elaborate wedding supper was served and the bride was very pleasantly remembered with choice gifts. The newly-wedded couple will begin housekeeping at once and have a cozy home in Pease court. The groom, who is the elder son of Captain and Mrs. Alex Buchholz, is the iron finisher for the Janesville Carriage Works.

Ritscher-Holmes.

Miss Lou Holmes of Beloit, will be joined in matrimony to Attorney Edward Ritscher of Chicago, a Beloit college graduate, next Thursday evening. The ceremony will be performed in college chapel.

GOOL

Jude Chollet on the Occult Law of Trifles in Etiquette.

One of the worst branches of etiquette of which you can be guilty is to attempt to teach your acquaintances etiquette. If you invite a friend to luncheon at a restaurant, for instance, or accept her invitation, you thereby confess that a degree of social equality exists between you and her, and if she eats her oysters with an ordinary fork instead of with the trident that has been specially provided for that purpose it is not within your province to correct her, unless she has previously recognized you as a guardian of her manners. If she chooses to convey ice cream to her mouth by means of a spoon instead of a fork, let her do it unmolested, the matter is not of the slightest consequence, and to be in constant fear of transgressing some occult law of etiquette one's self or of associating with persons who do so is to prove one's self not to the manner born and by nature a snob. Even if your country guest eats with her knife in public you will prove yourself a provincial by paying any attention to it. It happens to be her custom, to which she has been reared, and if you have a cosmopolitan mind it will be too insignificant a thing to worry you.

However technically perfect your own manners may be, they will exhibit a glaring deficiency if you correct those of other grown persons. Besides you are not sure of infallibility, and it is not impossible that you may occasionally rebuke a person who knows even more on the subject than you do and is behaving quite properly in the eyes of the cultivated world. When she eats her cheese with her knife, she is merely following the English habit, and it is quite permissible to take olives, corn, undressed lettuce and lump sugar in the fingers. Again, many of the actions that you consider faulty may be due to the absence of mind engendered by lively conversation, while others are accidents to which anybody is liable.

Most persons whom one meets socially have a sufficient knowledge of etiquette to be at ease among the people with whom they associate, and that is all that is necessary. A really well bred person never rests her faith on such minute trifles as the angle at which the knife is left or the number of crumbs to be permitted to fall from the piece of bread. Consideration for others is the foundation of all good manners, and the man or woman who lacks that has more affectation in the place of tact and true politeness.

The sketch shows a gown of rose and gold changeable silk. The skirt drapery is of white mousseline de sole, the bodice of white guipure, the sleeves and girdle of old yellow satin and the two bows of cherry velvet ribbon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

NEATNESS IN DRESS.

Haste is the Mother of Many Sins of Omission and Commission.

These are the days when neatness in dress goes under the name of smartness, says a common sense fashion writer, and the smartly gowned woman owes her success to the fact that she makes everything secure and tidy before she leaves her room, invariably making a final careful scrutiny of her attire as she stands, fully dressed, before her mirror. She who boasts that it never takes her a minute to dress may be fully assured that there will be abundant shortcomings in her raiment to bear witness to the truth of her statement. The bonnet and dress covered with dust collected during yesterday's walk; the veil badly adjusted; hooks that seem to have a mortal antipathy for their corresponding eyes; lustrous hairpins hanging, like the sword of Damocles, by a single hair. These are some of the sins of omission or commission that tell us she devotes insufficient time to her toilet. Believe me, you may possess the most expensive of gowns, bonnets, boots and gloves, yet if they are improperly cared for and carelessly worn your next little neighbor, with her "made over" dress and her last year's bonnet, will put you to shame in the matter of personal appearance. There is a gentility about her which brings her the most pleasing attentions, and men and women alike pay her homage because she is so neat and trim. She is a firm believer in that last look in the mirror. If the mirror is a full length one, so much the better, for things sometimes go wrong with the lower part of a costume, of which the wearer, looking down upon herself, is quite ignorant, but which are perfectly evident to everybody else.

A sketch is given of a gown of old blue batiste trimmed with white guipure. The waist is of white satin. JUDIC CHOLLET.

CURIOUS CLIPPINGS.

The value of public school property in the United States at the present time is estimated to be $400,000,000, and for all property used for educational purposes $600,000,000.

The principal grain crop of Prussia is rye. Over 4,000,000 hectares were raised last year, being twice as much as of oats and four times as much as of wheat. Prussia makes over 1,000,000 tons of beet sugar and yields one-half the world's supply of zinc.

One of the Gardiner, Maine, officers while sleeping in his own dooryard was the victim of a joker. When he woke up his hand-cuffs had been taken from his pocket and were fastened upon his wrists and all the valuables upon his person had been appropriated.

An autopsy upon the body of George O. Carkins, who was found dead in a field in Newington, N. H., a few days ago, and who was thought to have been murdered, revealed that death was caused by an ossified heart. Physicians say that the organ showed one of the most remarkable cases of the kind ever seen.

Avoiding Pain and Peril.

Defensive measures against the foe are ever adopted by a wise commander. He is commander of the situation and strikes a decisive blow at the start at that danger is and relentless enemy, rheumatism, if attacked by it, by resorting in time to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which checks permanently the progress of a malady and is the most obstinate, painful and possibly dangerous, against which medical skill and the resources of materia medica are arrayed. No evidence is more concurrent and convincing than that which proves that the Bitters neutralizes the rheumatic poison and checks its further development in the system. For malaria and kidney trouble, dyspepsia, want of vitality, nervousness, liver complaint and constipation, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the leading remedy.

A Disputed Case.

Many persons dispute the question as to whether or not badness caused either by disease or neglect can be cured. In deciding the question allow us to say that most cases can be cured, while others can not. Only a specialist of years of experience can tell this. Professor Birkholz, the world-renowned German specialist of the Masonic Temple, Chicago, where those who desire a good head of hair or beard, can consult him in private, and free of charge. After a thorough examination, which costs you nothing, we will tell you whether or not you may procure that trait of personal adornment so necessary to your existence, and if we find that the follicles are not all dead, we will treat you and guarantee the results or ask no pay. Call on or address Professor Birkholz, 1011 Masonic Temple, Chicago, Ill.

Hand this notice to any first class druggist and he will get the remedy for you at once, if he has not got it in stock.

A MOTHER'S DUTY

TOWARDS HER DAUGHTERS. Suggestions Which May Help to Avoid Many Dangers.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Less than twenty years ago even the medical profession scouted the idea that young girls could suffer from the misery of uterus troubles.

That form of disease, it was claimed, came only to married women.

When Lydia E. Pinkham first sent out the news of her great discovery, there was no lack of harsh speech from those whose practice and opinions she set at defiance.

But when young girls by the hundreds were absolutely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then the tongues of the traducers were stilled, and faith was allowed to live in the hearts of the people.

Young girls are subject to this trouble. It robs them of the buoyancy of youth. It makes all effort distasteful.

It causes retention and suppression of menses, leucorrhoea, severe headache, waxy complexion, depression, weakness, loss of appetite and interest.

This being the condition of your daughter, what is your duty, loving mother? Certainly you ought to know that these are all symptoms of the one cause of nearly all the suffering that comes to women; and to save your daughter you ought to begin that treatment at once, which for 20 years proved its power throughout the world.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the surest and most natural remedy for women ever compounded. It will accomplish its work with certainty.

Mrs. E. H. Dickinson of Bridgehampton, L. I., a few days ago, found in a clam shell a pearl one and one-half inches in circumference. "Those who talk of hard times," said a New Yorker recently from the West, "should go to Seattle to realize what the term really means. The panic came upon that purely boom town just as the boom was ready to collapse from inherent causes, and the result was an utter prostration of business, such as the East has not known. The very hotels in some instances are closing. The great hotel where I stopped merely rents rooms. It has been found unprofitable to maintain a table."

The blind man at his window bars
Stands in the morning dewy dim.
The lily footed dawn, the stars
That wait for it, are naught to him.
And naught to his unseeing eyes
The brownness of a sunny plain,
Where worn and drowsy August lies
And wakens but to sleep again.
And naught to him a greenish slope
That yearns up to the heights above,
And naught the leaves of May that ope
As softly as the eyes of love.
And naught to him the branching aisles
A throng with woodland worshippers,
And naught the fields where summer smiles
Among her sunburned laborers.
The way a trailing streamlet goes,
The barefoot grasses on its brim,
The dew that some flower cup o'erflows
With silent joy, are hid from him.
To him no breath of nature calls.
Upon his desk his work is laid.
He looks up at the dingy walls
And listens to the voice of trade.

THE TUTOR.

"Say, fellows, let's get rid of him. We can't stand that sort of a teacher," said Jack Darwin one day last April. "He makes me sick—always preaching, preaching, pre!"

"Let's settle him!" shouted three or four from the outside of the group.

"Aye, aye!" came the answers, and Taffy Douglass, the fat boy, with his slow movements, had just opened his mouth for an "Aye!" when he caught sight of the new tutor looking at the boys with a frown on his face, and so he transferred the intended part of speech into another loud yawn which made the new tutor jump, whereupon all the boys giggled.

"Who is to be 'settled,' Thorn?" the tutor asked of the tall boy who stood nearest him. Thorn colored up to the roots of his hair—he had a very fair complexion and blushed easily, which led to his being called "Rosie" by the others—and stammered:

"I forg—I don't—didn't hear, Mr. Whyland."

"Perhaps you didn't hear the bell ring for you to go back to your class either. What is it, Blake?" demanded the young man, turning to Teddy.

"What, Mr. Whyland?" asked Teddy innocently.

"Who were you going to 'settle' as I came in?"

"Oh, that's only a little way we have of speaking about those Latin translations, sir."

The tutor looked as though he did not believe Teddy's explanation, but he said nothing more about it.

Mr. Whyland was the new assistant at the academy. He had been there only a week, but in that time had managed with his extra rules and hard punishments to make all the boys his enemies. He did not seem to get along with them somehow. Perhaps boarding school boys are hard to get along with. Dr. Arnold, president of the school, had engaged this young man to fill a vacancy on his staff of instructors not because he knew him personally, but because he had taken high honors at graduation, and, too, his mother was an old friend of the doctor's. "He is a very nice fellow with the men," the doctor had told his wife, "but he forgets he ever was a boy. I'll have a little talk with him. He punishes too often, and the boys can't get his big worded explanations through their heads." But Dr. Arnold postponed his little talk too long, for the boys "settled" their tutor first.

That afternoon the third form boys did not make as much noise as usual, and that dear old lady, Mother Arnold, as she was affectionately called, scented mischief as she looked from her window out on the playground. The boys were grouped together, talking and gesticulating violently, and Mother Arnold thought she ought to tell the doctor about it, but he was out, and by the time he came in everything was quiet again. What transpired on the "campus" I'll tell you just as it was said.

"Let's boycott him," suggested Teddy, who hadn't a very well defined idea of what boycotting was.

"Oh, shut up!" growled Ned Turner, a thickset fellow with less than his share of brains. "The only way to fix him is to fight. Take him when he isn't prepared, and two or three of us big fellows will lay him out."

"That's cowardly," said Frank Snow. "Nobody but Turner would think of doing such!"

"Take that back!" shouted Ned, "or I'll show you who's a cow!"

But Frank didn't, because just then Harry Boot, the class beauty, shouted "Hurrah!" at the top of his voice, and every one rushed over to where he and Taffy were seated on the fence to see what was the matter. These two had been separated from the other boys for quite awhile, and as Taffy announced: "The Beauty has struck it, fellows! We'll force old Why to resign, and I'm going to do the biggest part of it!"

"What?" "How?" "When?" were the questions then asked.

"Be quiet, and I'll tell you," said Harry. "We'll make life disagreeable for him and make him give up teaching us. Don't any of you boys study your lessons tonight, and tomorrow make all the noise you can in class, and at evening session Taffy will do something to astonish you."

"What?" cried Ted.

"Wait and see," drawled Taffy, "only have your rubber erasers and lots of paper balls on hand to use."

That night was very long to the expectant boys, but they were so quiet during evening session that the tutor thought he had commenced to have some control over his charges. But the morning dispelled the illusions he had on this score. Not one in the third form knew his lessons, and, what was worse, they all owned they hadn't studied a bit.

After supper that day, when the gong sounded for all pupils to retire to their respective classrooms, there was a half suppressed excitement among the third form boys. For all Mr. Whyland's commands no one thought of studying. At last the tutor lost patience. "I shall have to refer this matter to the doctor," he began.

"Do," said Frank, whose desk was on the opposite side of the room from Taffy. Now was Taffy's chance. He cautiously mounted his desk, his cheeks bulged out with wind, looking like a full moon. The boys commenced to cheer, and Mr. Whyland turned in time to see Taffy standing on tiptoe on the desk, with his mouth directly over a gas burner. That was all he saw, however, for just then Taffy's mouth opened, and a gust of wind from it swept down the gas burner. Immediately all was darkness, not only in that room, but in the whole building.

Then what an uproar there was! Rubbers and books commenced to fly in the direction of the tutor. Then some one fired an inkstand toward the blackboard. It did not reach its destination. Just then the door opened, and Dr. and Mrs. Arnold, with several of the teachers and older boys, appeared with lights and matches to stop the gas that was escaping from every flameless burner.

"Silence!" roared the old man, and every one fell into the seat nearest to him. "What does this mean, Mr. Whyland?"

But Mr. Whyland didn't answer. He was lying on the floor.

The doctor hurried to him, but found him insensible. There was a deep wound in his head, from which the blood flowed freely.

You could have heard a pin drop any time during the next 15 minutes, the silence was so deep after Mr. Whyland had been carried to his room. Finally Mrs. Arnold returned. She looked worried, and the sight of her face made the culprits feel very uncomfortable.

"Boys," she said, "what does it all mean? Do you know what you have done? The doctor thinks Mr. Whyland will not recover from the blow given him by that inkstand. I do not ask who threw it, but do you realize what has been done?"

"Mother Arnold," said Harry, breaking the silence, "it's my fault. I suggested putting the gas out. I'll take the blame."

"But I did it," said Taffy, two great tears rolling down his cheeks, "and I suggested erasers and spitballs."

"I threw three rubbers and a book," owned Jack.

"And I some beans," said another.

"Will he die, Mother Arnold?"

"It is a serious injury," said Mrs. Arnold, "but we will hope for the best. For present punishment you will be closely confined to the house for a week, and the doctor will see you later."

"We don't mind that," said Harry, choking over his words, "if only he doesn't die."

There was very little sleeping done that night at the academy, especially by the third form boys. Only one or two had gone so far as to prepare for bed. The others stood around in awed and silent groups.

After the consultation the doctors pronounced Mr. Whyland to be suffering from a severe attack of brain fever. Never were boys so frightened at what they had done or so repentant. Mr. Whyland's mother was telegraphed for, and late in the afternoon she arrived, accompanied by Bessie, one of her daughters. Of his five sisters, Bessie was her brother's favorite, and the boys didn't wonder, for a lovelier young lady they never had seen. As soon as she arrived the whole school fell in love with her and would do anything that she wished. The third form boys naturally felt a trifle shy after what they had done, but she made friends with one and all.

Lessons were quite neglected in the week that followed, and the boys were quiet as mice. Harry and Taffy made their confession to the young tutor's mother, but where they expected to be blamed they were forgiven. After tedious waiting Mr. Whyland began to recover. He would not let Dr. Arnold expel the boys; said he himself was at fault to make enemies and not friends of the boys. The boys were untiring in their efforts to run errands and do everything for him.

One day, when her son was nearly well, Mrs. Whyland went to the third form classroom with Mrs. Arnold and made a little speech to the boys.

"I want to tell you, boys," said she, "how Richard, my only son, was brought up. His father was a naval officer and was away part of every year before he died, and so left me to manage the boy. Richard never went to school, as you boys do, but I taught him at home with his five sisters. He associated only with women until he went to college, so you can easily see why he didn't know how to manage or teach boys. He says that when he recovers he is going to know you better and is sure that he will like you and be able to make you understand. His physician allows him to go out for the first time tomorrow, and he wants to see you."

Then the boys understood. No wonder poor Mr. Whyland did not know how to manage them. He had been brought up with his sisters, whom, if they were all like Bessie, must be very nice indeed, and he had been supporting them by teaching.

The next day was a holiday in honor of the young tutor's recovery.

Toward noon he appeared on the steps leading to the playground, supported by his mother and Bessie. He was greeted with shouts of applause, and the third form boys had humbly begged his forgiveness. He made a little speech, saying that he trusted he should manage them better in the future, and he hoped they would always be the best of friends.

"And, boys," he added, with twinkling eyes, "I have learned something new about gas, and since I have recovered I am glad that you did 'settle' me."

"Three cheers for Professor Whyland and Miss Bessie!" cried Harry, and hurrahs could be heard for miles.—Katherine N. Birdsall in Philadelphia Press.

The ever-increasing popularity of CLIMAX PLUG can only be attributed to its high quality, delicious flavor, and satisfying substance—three features which all judges of Chewing Tobacco know to be essential.

Many men ask for a certain brand of tobacco through force of habit, without stopping to think whether there is anything better to be had for the same price. If you want the best, ask for CLIMAX PLUG.

Harper's Pictorial War History.

It was the intention of the publishers in issuing this history to complete it in 26 parts but so many Fine Illustrations, that were not originally planned for, have been added to the several parts as they came out, that it has been found necessary to extend the work to one more part making twenty-seven in all. This last part will conclude with a very complete and carefully prepared index of the whole work, by the aid of which any person or event in the entire history can be referred to at once. The index is one of the most valuable parts of the whole book, and doubles its worth as a practical history of the war.

REALITY VS. SHAM! = = PRACTICE VS. THEORY!

Quacks live at the expense of the public and serious practioners. Frauds flourish at the cost of thoughtless and faithful rivals. Trash takes a share of the tribute that belongs of right to worthy stuffs. Theory without practice is ditched in losses. Visions create ideas, but are misleading when applied to materials and prices. There is a lot of the best sociology in honest and enterprising retailing. Neither day dreams nor science are the ends of this business. We are busy and earnest with all the power of capital, brains and distribution at our command in bringing you the best Furniture we can get at the least possible prices.
